

(This has happened here already). I believe that the door is not closed, if they are good they they will feel justice (there was a passage in this in some early war times [Greek]).

I would not debate a couple writing, and if course I would go over it with you ^{something} ~~something~~ before going to bed, but I should very much like to do it as I fear discuss being with stamped to writing initially with believing but it will be useless for them even to that do books on the back, and I can see that the problem has not yet been resolved at all we could say definitely that it will never be possible and could never be advantageous to persuade them to double cross their friends.
Incidentally have you an exact list of [unclear]
